

What to consider before enrolling in the course

- What's involved in this course?
- What Peer Work tasks are required?
- What does a Supervisor need to do?

This course is designed for Peer Workers who are qualified for their roles because they have lived experience of mental distress/overcoming adversity. There are many ways that peer work can look across different organisations. To ensure you understand the practical things that will be required of you throughout the course, and to help you with your enrolment decision, we have prepared this document.

WORK PLACEMENT: You must complete 120 hours in a peer work role and have a supervisor who is willing to confirm this in your Practice Logbook and complete a Supervisors Report based on their observation and knowledge of your practice. Your 120 hours can be work you have done up to a year prior to enrolment and during the course. Your peer work may be paid or voluntary. If you don't think your hours will be completed before the course ends, please talk to our Student Services Team for potential options.

ASSESSMENT BOOKS: In addition to your Practice Logbook and Supervisors Report you will need to complete 13 Assessment Books. These assessment books generally require short answer questions, however there will be one book that requires you to write a survey and a report. The short answer questions will ask you for general knowledge and ask you to talk about your direct practice experience in peer work. You must be able to talk about working with your clients and the ways you support them over multiple questions and often include long case studies (de-identified) from your peer work practice.

CLASS OR WEBINAR ATTENDANCE: You will need study leave/the ability to attend face-to-face days when completing this course in person. If you are completing this course online, your webinars have the same attendance requirement, and you must attain study leave and attend the sessions regularly. We provide you with dates in advance so you can give these to your supervisor and make sure your schedule is clear to attend.

SUPERVISOR ROLE: Your supervisor is required to commit to supporting you during this course with gaining the required workplace experience and study leave to attend training. This will include assisting you by providing opportunities to practice all the required skills for this qualification. Your supervisor must verify and sign your logbook and complete information about your work practices in a Supervisor Report. Some workplace documentation that has been de-identified may be required in your assessments. Your supervisor's permission may be required for this.

Tasks you will be required to undertake

These are the kinds of tasks you will write about in your assessment books, and for which you must log hours into your practice logbook. If you read this list and do not perform one or more of these tasks, please speak with your supervisor to find opportunities to practice or talk to our Student Services Team.
